Scientists and experts work hard to solve mysteries, but some questions cannot be resolved. Strange events have happened all over the world, like hackers hijacking broadcasts, fairies circles, unresolved deaths, and more. Get ready to see some creepy, weird pictures. Here are 37 inexplicable and mysterious photos of history. Have you ever seen a TV signal hijacking? On November 22, 1987, residents of Chicago, Illinois, saw two individuals take control of their television screens. One of the hackers was wearing a Max Headroom mask and messed up nonsense. The hacker also has the camera's all-in-one, and he's been shackled with a flyer by the accomplice. Hackers remain unidentified. Nine hikers mysteriously died in the Ural Mountains of Russia. In the middle of the night, something forced them to cut their way out of their tent and cold. Six of them died from hypothermia and others from physical trauma, including a fractured skull and severe fractures in the chest. One of the eyes and language of the hikers was missing. Experts don't know what caused their death. An unknown woman, now called the Babushka Lady, may have taken photographs of JFK the exact moment in which she was shot because on movies of other witnesses who can be seen holding a camera on her face as JFK stee near her. People in the film were identified except for the Babushka Lady and a couple of others (such as the Shadow Man or Badge Man). The footage he took from the murder was never found. Many conspiracy theories surround the unknown woman. On February 19, 2013, Lam's body was found in a water tank at the top of the infamous Cecil Hotel in Downtown LA when guests complained about the color and taste of water. At the beginning of that month, she was reported missing and the hotel elevator camera captured Lam acting strangely. People suspect the video was tampered with. The cause of his death remains unresolved. The Cecil Hotel is home to 16 strange deaths. In 1997, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) detected an ultra-low and high-volume underwater sound. Experts believe that sound is of animal origin, but the strange part is that no animal on Earth is able to make such a powerful call, so they just called the Bloop sound. Unexplained lights travel through the Hessdalen valley in Norway during the day and night. Lights can be white, yellow or red. Sometimes the lights move at different speeds. This artifact doesn't seem very much, but scientists believe it was an important tool that calculated astronomical events in ancient Greece. Other mysteries are still solved today. Around the world during ancient times, human beings have drilledin the skulls of others in a process called trepanning. scientists cannot agree on reason. Experts suggest that it was a form of brain surgery or ritual to make evil spirits go nuts. the great raid of los angeles, also called the battle of los angeles, was whenThe plants sounded air sirens and fired 1,400 times in the air at a reported plane using anti-aircraft machine guns and shells. The Air Force claims that the event on February 24, 1942 was a mistake. The reported plane was a weather balloon. The newspapers suspected the army had covered the real story. Tank Man became internationally known by an iconic photo. On June 5, 1989, after the protests of Tiananmen Square were suppressed, it was struck by the obstructionism of Chinese military tanks. His identity and history of what happened to him remain unknown. In New Zealand, more than 656 whales were blocked in February 2017. The event is the second largest plot in New Zealand. The biggest scaling occurred in the 1800s. Scientists cannot confirm why the threads are so massive, but predators, diseases, navigational errors and tides falling could be reasons. Recently, 145 whales were blocked and died on November 26, 2018. Some people believe that the object in NASA's captured photo is of extraterrestrial origin and has been orbiting the earth for 13,000 years. NASA claims that the object is only spatial debris as a thermal blanket lost by one of their missions. The circles of fairies seem like polka dots that invaded the ground. Ecologists were aware of the phenomenon of southern Africa, mainly of Namibia, but found similar ring spots in Western Australia in 2014. Experts have no idea what these rings cause. Stefan Michalak claims he met a UFO and learned his lesson when the flying disc burned him at Falcon Lake in Canada on May 20, 1967. A pattern of signs was on the chest. His burned objects were investigated, but no one could understand what burned him because his story checked. Freddy Jackson, an air mechanic, died in 1919 and his squadron kept a funeral for him before the group's photo was taken. The members of his squadron quickly spotted him in photography and have no explanation about how his face could manifest, apart from the figure being his ghost. Rocks that strangely move along the ground without any help from gravity and no witness is known as sailing stones. These rocks leave behind a path that proves their movement. In 2014, scientists suggested ice, water and wind can be the culprits after using time-lapse and GPS photography to follow the movements. On December 24, 1945, Sodder's house was destroyed by a fire. Parents believe it was a fire because of a mysterious phone call right before the fire, their phone line being cut, and someone moving a ladder to their house, while the fire department claims it was caused by a problemFour of their sons fled, while the bodies of their other five sons were not found. Parents suspect they were kidnapped because their father had problems with the Sicilian mafia. Bishopville residents are serious about a red creature of 7 feet, also known as Lizard Man, who lives in their swamp. In the 1980s, 80s,reported that the entity destroyed his car and since then the story of Lizard's Man has been kept alive. Thousands of people saw strange unidentified flying objects that illuminated the sky in Arizona and Nevada on March 13, 1997. Security cameras captured a ghost figure opening fire doors at Hampton Court in October 2003. The staff is puzzled about who or what the figure might be and we are puzzled about why people still work there after seeing the video. Two Dutch hikers died on a trip to Panama. The parts of their bodies were discovered, but the cause of death was never resolved. Their camera was found with normal photos of the two together with strange flash photos in darkness. Also known as the Mekong lights or ghost lights, the phenomenon occurs along the Mekong River every year. Experts do not agree on the cause of glowing balls. Hugo Gernsback invented a bizarre helmet in 1925 to focus on his work. It is perfect for people who distract easily or have noisy roommates. In Russia, there is a giant man-made hole, Mirny Mine, where an unusual amount of diamonds was found. The air space above the hole is reported to be off limits because it can suck in anything that flies over the head. In the 1930s, a serial killer, who dismembered his victims, terrified Cleveland, Ohio. Most of his victims remain unidentified. The victim's masks are on display at the Cleveland Police Museum. The serial killer has never been captured. In 1951, some of Reeser's body parts were found among the ash batteries probably due to spontaneous human combustion. His skull was torn to the size of a cup of tea. The area of the house where his body was found barely had damage. These uncertainties because it would take extremely high temperatures for the body to turn to ashes, but the house was not affected. There were no clues about Johnny Gosch's sudden disappearance in 1982. It was the first child to have his image on milk cartons to help find missing children. His mother claims he came to visit her in 1997 with an unidentified man, informing her that she was victim to a pedophile ring and was too old to stay in it. Your son didn't want to risk the safety of his family so he changed his identity and couldn't go home. No one else can confirm this meeting and Johnny has never been seen again. In Antarctic, Rodney David Marks mysteriously died of methanol poisoning at work. No one knows how he could ingest the poison, but people suspect he was killed. Doctors convinced people that it was a good idea to connect strange wire cages to building windowso that their children to get air from the 1920s to the 1930s. In 1922, six people were brutally murdered with a brick (similar to a picket) on a small farm in modern Germany. Before the attack, strange events happened at the farm. Six months before the event, the waitress quit because he thought the farm was haunted. A few days before the murders, one off the keys to the house disappeared, the prints were found that lead to the house, but not far from the house, and the family heard the footprints in the attic. The murders remain unresolved. Since 1869, there has been a phenomenon called a colony collapse disorder. It is when the workers bees leave their colony and queen. Since 2006, the number of disappearances has increased dramatically throughout the world. The cause of collapse of the colony is unknown. Don't you hate it when ghosts appear in the back seat when you drive? Mrs. Mabel Chinnery was visiting her mother's grave and taking pictures of her husband waiting in the car. Chinnery immediately noticed a figure similar to his mother in the back seat. Photographic experts investigated the photo and found no tampering. 350-year-old rock formation in Siberia has scientists scratching their heads. Scientists are not sure of the origin of the crater, the hypotheses include meteorites, volcanoes and gas sources. 25 people mysteriously disappeared from the merchant ship, MV Joyita in 1955. When the boat was found, it was in bad condition and tilting to one side, but it is floating made it insinkable. Passengers and crew could have stayed and waited for help. An unidentified dead man was found on a beach in southern Australia in 1948. The Persian phrase tamam shah, which means finished or finished, was found on a piece of paper in his pants. A book was also found with an indecipherable handwritten message. Investigators do not know the identity of man or how he died. In 1938, Britain demonstrated gas-resistant masks and prams as a security precaution for war. The pram protected the children and gave them fresh air from a gas filter. June and Jennifer Gibbons were known as "The Silent Twins" because they refused to talk to anyone except themselves. They also committed crimes together. The twins believed that the only way to live a normal life was if one of them died or was "sacrifice". A twin died mysteriously in 1980.
