TEASERS [1] Announcement Year of the Dragon [1] A peek to the contents published during the year of the dragon. On 28 February 2019, Blizzard announced the changes and the new content provided for the year of the dragon, the fourth year of the standard format. The post on the announcement blog and the accompanying video included a teaser image for the three expansions provided for the year, with the first expansions marked with a purple object surrounded by purple runes. [4] Video teaser [1] Starting from March 5, 2019, Blizzard released a series of video teasers for the eleventh expansion. The first video, The Fortune Teller, depicts a female troll (then revealed to be Madame Lazul, already seen in the trailer of the Whispers of the Old Gods) which screams with five cards. The first paper, a crystal sphere, represents it; Explain that he is joining a team. Â «The masters of the plot and the conspiracy», and Â «The others', represented by the other cards, Â« will pass. â € »reveals the second card, which depicts a scale, A crown, a treasure and a candle. In the second video, The King, Lazul reveals that the second teammate is King And it turns a third card, depicting a totem with a skull. In the third video, The Witch, Lazul explains that the third video member is Hagatha the Strega, and reveals a fourth card, which she says represents the last teammate, "a guy who makes things boom!" In the fourth video, The Scientist reveals that the last teammate is Dr. Boom. The fifth card, it turns out, represents the ether who brought the team together: As we learn in the film trailer, it is the Arch-Ladro Rafaam. The tab reveals[1] After the initial announcement of expansion, small amounts of cards in the set were revealed through the official blog posts Blizzard. Card reveal took off seriously on March 25 in a reveal livestream card [5] Card reveal schedule for March 21-27. Paper Detection Program for 27-29. Paper Detection Program for March 29-30. Paper Detection Program for March 31-April 1. Paper reveal program for April 2. Curiosity[1] The idea of an expansion that brings together the bad past has been put into the pipeline since Team 5 launched the One Night adventure in Karazhan, more than 3 years before Rise of Shadows. [6] Unlike previous expansions, Shadow Resveglio does not include a hero card. According to Peter Whalen, this is due to the fact that "with the heroic cards of the Frozen Throne Knights rotating on Wild", it seemed the right time to take a break and have only the three heroic cards of the Year of the Crow in the Standard. In addition, the team wanted the set to rotate around the League of E.V.I.L. as a whole and that each member shone in their own space, rather than having a member "to rob the show" as a hero card.[7][8] Team 5 deliberately chose not to specify where Dalaran is during the events of Rise of Shadows.[9] As a result, the expansion features cards that refer to both the Wrath of the Lich King version (when it was above Northrend) and the Legion version (when it was above the Broken Islands). Many of the druids of the set take inspiration from the Crystalsong Forest, the Northrend area on which Dalaran is placed in Wrath of the Lich King.[9] Since the only druids character in the WoW Dalaran is Applebough, a treatant that acts as a fruiter, the team had to be creative in deciding how druids would help the city. In the end they decided that, as Crystalsong is a wonderful and unique blend of nature and magic, the druids would pull out from there to help Dalaran.[10] References[1] Blizzard Entertainment9 April 2019 E.V.I.L.
