The Must-Haves From there, the backstage pass template is really a blank canvas, allowing you to include whatever elements you need in order to correspond with the theme you're trying to match. For this example, I chose a country music theme (but have also included a rock show, an awards show, and a pop show pass template that will come when you access the templates). This is something that can be used for a themed party, and is easily-adaptable depending on theme (and can even stretch into sports, which I'll create at some point soon). Backstage Pass Template. Yes, crazy rock shows, or probably a movie depicting a crazy rock show where a couple of sneakers grab a couple of passes to make for an amazing night. With any pass, though, and whichever theme you need, you're probably going to want to include: Event name Event date Guest name Main graphical element in Canva, I went to "backgrounds" on the left and chose a warmer yellow gradient (orange or even purple would work also). I then added another, thinner, white rectangle where I knew I was going to want some text.
